

ROCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

Welcoming all to connect and learn.

How we collect and use your information:

According to the Minnesota Government Data Practices Act Sec. 13.04 MN Statutes, Rochester Public Library (RPL) must inform you, the library card applicant, of the private data we collect, its uses and disposition (sometimes referred to as the “Tennessee warning”).

- Per Sec. 13.40 MN Statutes, all information provided in the library card application, except your name, is considered private.
- This private information you supply is only available to you and to authorized library personnel. It is not available to the general public without your permission, a court order or as otherwise authorized by law.
- The information collected allows RPL to establish an account for library privileges, provide services you have requested, monitor and improve services, keep your record up to date, customize content, and to conduct other necessary library business.
- We may store some of this information in a secure third-party repository. We do not share your information or activity with ad networks or other entities that are not directly involved in services you choose to use.
- You are not required by law to provide this data. If you are unable or unwilling to provide the information needed, RPL reserves the right to limit or refuse library services.
- If you are under age 18, the information in your library account is available to your parent or guardian. You may ask to have this information withheld by completing a request with the City of Rochester Clerk’s Office, who will determine if it is in your best interest to do so.
